The public services we all rely on have been cut back dangerously since 2010 and half a million jobs have already been lost. If they win the election the Tories want to go even further – downgrading the services we rely on and cutting close to one million more public service jobs. UNISON is standing up for an NHS that is fit for purpose, social care that protects those that need it and education that prepares our children for the future. The first step is to vote on 7 May.
