For those who feel attraction
to more than one gender
Love counts more than gender

UNISON, the UK's largest public service trade union, is working to:

Stop biphobic discrimination and harassment

Protect your privacy and dignity at work

Educate activists and members about relevant equality issues

Negotiate to establish best practice with employers for bi inclusion

Support you in accessing your legal rights

Remove the myths and stereotypes surrounding bisexuality

Bi?

For those who feel attraction
to more than one gender
Love counts more than gender

As a UNISON member you have access to:

- excellent free legal services including help with work problems and legal support for your family
- a special hotline for help and advice on workplace issues
- a confidential network of bi members who organise together with lesbian, gay and transgender members.

You don't need to come out as bi at work or in your UNISON branch. You can join UNISON's confidential national bi caucus by contacting UNISON's national officer for LGBT equality at:

UNISON Centre, 130 Euston Road, London NW1 2AY
