

UNISON

the union for you in SSE

If you work for SSE
you can get essential cover at work by joining UNISON – the UK's leading trade union.

UNISON is a leading union in energy with members in all the major companies. We also have a strong presence here in SSE – our members work across many parts of the business.

And where we have members we have union reps, who are always on hand to help you. So if you need advice and support at work, legal help, financial assistance and debt advice or compensation for accidents, UNISON has got it covered.

UNISON helpline 0800 0 857857 is open until midnight and we also offer a range of exclusive member discounts that can save you and your family money.

Making a real difference

And by being such a strong presence in SSE we make a real difference. Take pay for example. It is a fact that in organisations where lots of members are in the union, staff are paid better. UNISON negotiates with the company to secure the best pay deals possible. And we always consult our members on the deals we negotiate because their views are important to us.

We'll look after your pension. UNISON works hard to win the best possible pensions for our members and our team of national experts delivers the best service possible. Our job is to protect your job. We know how important job security is to you and we work with employers to secure employment opportunities and avoid compulsory redundancy wherever possible.

Equality matters to us – our track record in fighting discrimination is second to none. We represent our members who are the victims of discrimination and work with employers to introduce better working practices to stamp this out across the industry.

Securing the future

As one of the largest trade unions in the energy industry, we know how important it is to build a secure energy future for everyone - staff and public alike. That's why we constantly use our influence with the people that matter, including senior industry people, regulators, politicians, consumer groups and environmental organisations. And we don't just do this in this country, but at the European level as well. This gives our members a voice in key discussions that affect us all.

There's never been a better time to join UNISON.
