UNISON
the public service union

Trump, racism, #metoo, inequality, mental health, equal pay, austerity, housing, Brexit, a living wage – just a few things that might have made you scream, laugh or cry in the last year or so.

One thing you can do to improve your world is join a trade union. UNISON campaigns on all these issues, while giving members protection and a voice at work. We're there with legal advice, representation and free training to support you at work. But we also win change and improve our members' lives. And because we've got clout, experience and 1.3 million members behind us, it's more likely we'll win together than you trying on your own.
