

NURSING THE NATION 2020

International year of the nurse and midwife

UNISON, the UK's biggest union,
is proud of the vital jobs our nurses,
midwives and nursing associates
do every day to help people.

You are there to care for patients, save lives and help families and that's worth celebrating. You make a very real and vital contribution to the health and wellbeing of our nation. That's why this year, 2020, UNISON is celebrating the international year of the nurse and midwife by holding a series of events in NHS trusts up and down the country – all focussed on the week of 11 May.

So, speak to UNISON where you work to find out how you can be part of our celebrations. Because this is for everyone. Our nurses, midwives and nursing associates of course, so we can all say thank you, but also to give the whole NHS team the chance to celebrate the work of their colleagues. And for the public too – because what you do touches lives – and we know patients and their families would love the chance to say thank you.
