

UNISON

Job Brief: Local Organiser

Introduction

1. UNISON is Britain's leading public sector trade union, with over 1.3 million members working in the public services, private, voluntary and community sectors and in the energy services. We employ 1200 staff, approximately 370 at our national centre in Euston, central London and the remainder in our twelve regions across the UK, including Northern Ireland.

The Local Organiser Role

2. The Local Organiser is a new role in UNISON's regions. Staff in these posts will be an enthusiastic and flexible resource for organising at local and regional level. The focus of the job is on recruiting new members directly-one to one; or using simple issue based campaigning; carrying out leaflet drops; going to induction sessions; helping to draft local and one off recruitment materials. More than simple recruiters, this new generation of UNISON organisers link with regional organising teams and will use mapping and campaigning to help develop new activists at a branch level.
The Local Organiser:

- Arranges recruitment initiatives on Greenfield sites, regular pitches on employer premises, and at public events.
- Extracts information from the Regional Membership Systems helping branches to decide where they should target their recruitment activities.
- Evaluates the outcome of recruitment activities they have arranged to build an understanding of what works.
- Contributes to the development of recruitment campaigns
- Designs and make presentations to prospective members at Induction events.
- Seeks to identify new activists they may meet during the course of recruitment events and provide them with the necessary information to enable them to participate in UNISON activities.
- Gives basic advice to lay representatives, members and non-members.
- Advises and assists branches with the arrangements and administration of recruitment campaigns, by helping draft publicity, carry out mail shots and advising them on the purchase of promotional goods
- Works to recruitment targets providing regular reports on membership targets achieved and recruitment activities undertaken.

3. UNISON structures its work programme to provide for the systematic implementation of policies adopted by its democratic lay member structures. Local Organisers will play a key role in helping to achieve the targets arising out of the first of the four key objectives determined by the National Executive Council:

- Enhance our organisational capability to meet the recruiting and organising challenge posed by austerity measures, including public spending cuts, workforce reductions and fragmentation of public services
 - Protect and secure decent employment, pay and pensions for UNISON members, promoting equality and challenging discrimination
 - Develop our Million Voices for Public Services campaign in support of quality public services and in defence of the NHS, building our political influence and forging alliances with unions and community organisations
 - Ensure that the union's essential information and communication technology infrastructure and internal management systems are efficient and effective to meet the changing needs of our membership.
4. To further these aims, post holders have a strong commitment to the trade union movement and the ability to motivate potential members to join and participate in the activities of UNISON. They also have an understanding of equalities issues and commitment to building a diverse organisation. They must demonstrate a enthusiastic and proactive approach to recruitment which encourages, motivates and enthuses colleagues and lay member activists.
 6. UNISON regions are currently undergoing a period of change to meet the union's developing recruitment, organising and campaigning agenda. Postholders must be willing to change and adapt to help and support lay activists to do likewise.
 7. The allocation of work to the local organiser is the responsibility of the designated manager. Areas of work are annually reviewed in discussion with the local organiser to meet the needs of the organisation and services to branches and members.
